west, Washington, yesterday afternoon, Lawrence Alsop, 22 years old, of 30 Bates street northwest, died early this morning at Emergency Hospital of internal injuries.

The fire truck was speeling east on Rhode Island Avenue, and Alsop, on his motorcycle, was traveling west on Florida Avenue. Alsop apparently saw the truck and attempted to turn east on Rhode Island Avenue with the fire apparatus. W. J. Berry, driver of the truck, swerved to the left side of the thoroughfare in an effort to give the motorcycle rider room for the turn.

Alsop turned too wide and came directly in the path of the heavier machine. The motor was crushed, the rider thrown on the truck's bumper, and the fire truck jumped over the north curb. Before Berry could stop the truck it had demolished a street lamp and crushed the left front wheel against the curb.

Members of the company aboard the truck were showered with glass from the street lamp, but escaped injury other than a few minor scratches.

The alarm which called the truck to Rhode Island Avenue and Summit place was false.

over the threshold of others because a good wife assumes that husbands do not forgive. The shadow lengthens when years later the woman's son, infected with the common virus of propaganda, gives up the girl he loves because appearances are against her. The happy end is logical.

The all-star cast is uniformly strong. Mrs. James K. Hackett plays the Woman; and Miriam Cooper, well known as the heroine of other big scale productions, is seen as the Girl.
